

Straight Line Construction---Simplify Drawing Using Straight Lines on Rounded Objects

Straight line construction is a process by which you investigate the curves and contours of a form by translating them into a series of straight lines that describe and emphasize those places where contour shift, overlap, or change direction. This process forces you to pay careful attention to the location of contour changes, the subtlety or abruptness of these changes, and the relationship of details to the whole.

