Upcoming Events

Release Party Planned for DePoy's Historical Whodunit, May 26

The second coming of "The Name of the Rose?"

Possibly, at least according to Booklist. Readers will have a chance to find out on Tuesday, May 26 when the Eagle Eye Book Shop, 2076 N. Decatur Rd., Decatur, holds a 6:30 p.m. release party for Clayton State Theater Director Philips DePoy's 11th novel, "The King James Conspiracy." (St. Martin's Press, $25.95)

Since DePoy's latest work is an historical novel/murder mystery set in 17th Century England and centered on a group of scholars assigned by King James I to create a definitive English translation of the Bible, there are clearly similarities to Umberto Eco's classic 1983 historical novel/detective story, set in a northern Italian abbey in 1327. And while Eco's novel is justly famous, there are few authors who can top DePoy for creativity.

For more information on the release party, call the Eagle Eye Book Shop's George Scott at (404) 486-0307.

The nomination process for all six categories (Individual, Team, Service Leadership, Call Center/Service Desk/Help Desk, Improvement Initiative, Institution) is quick, easy, and can be done online through the USG's customer service website. The May 22 issue of Campus Review will provide more details on this program. Here's your chance to recognize great customer service on the Clayton State campus.

Change is Coming -- Shared Services Strategy

The first step in improving efficiency and effectiveness for the University System of Georgia is to consolidate HR/Payroll information processes through a shared services strategy. The shared services model will enable the University System to increase timeliness, quality and consistency of information, and to increase functionality and service to customers. The next step in that transition is to help the system achieve goal six of the Board of Regents strategic plan which calls for attaining best-in-class efficiencies for our administrative support functions in the University System of Georgia. Currently, this model is targeted to be in place for the July 17, 2009 bi-weekly payroll.

Over the next several weeks you will start to see the implementation of shared services at Clayton State University. We will provide specific details for all faculty and staff at informational meetings.
